OverflowDynamics

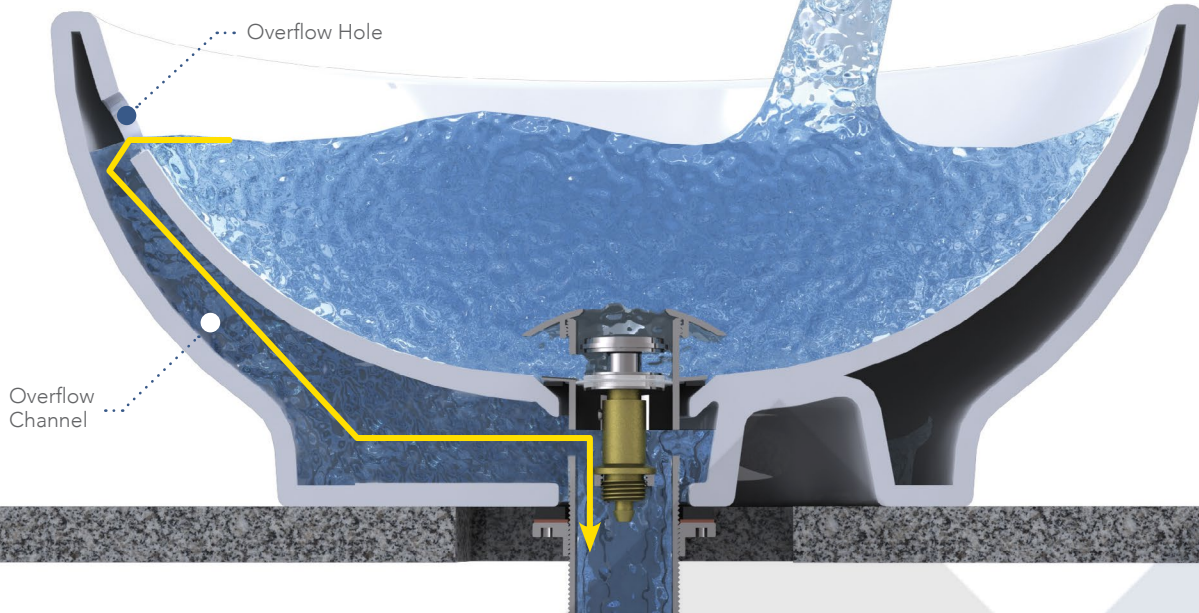

Drain in Open Position

In normal operation, when DECOLAV's drains are open, the water flows from the faucet to the lavatory basin and then leaves via the open trap channel. The bowl will not fill up so the overflow channel is not utilized.

Drain in Closed Position

When DECOLAV's drain is closed, it allows the lavatory to fill with water. If left unattended, the water will spill over the edge and flood your bathroom. An overflow within your lavatory counters this problem by allowing the running water to escape down a channel in the bowl itself.

DECOLAV's re-engineered Push Button Umbrella Drain with or without Overflow is the decorative alternative for any non-closing pop-up drain. The cap discretely conceals drains. Our patented drainage channels maximize water flow over comparable competitor models. Its raised umbrella minimizes vapor lock causing air bubbles that slow down water flowing down your drain.
