The Crema Rosa natural marble is discontinued

Please note that the Crema Rosa natural marble will no longer be available as soon as our stock is exhausted. If you receive requests for Crema Rosa marble tops, please check with us to make sure we have enough material in stock.

This decision is justified by the following reasons:

- The difficulty of supplying this color.
- From one batch to another, the Crema Rosa tops display natural variations in color and veining. The delivered countertops do not correspond to the customers' high expectations and/or are different from the samples and countertops seen in the showroom, resulting in service calls.

In addition,

- We will now focus on our six colors of engineered marble, whose comparative advantages with the natural stone are as follow:
 - Consistency of the quality from one batch to another;
 - Greater uniformity of color;
 - Conformity with the samples;
 - Absence of veins that may weaken the countertop.

Please discard your Crema Rosa natural marble sample and cross out the color in the “vanity tops” section of your price lists.

As a close substitute for the Crema Rosa, we suggest the Aurora engineered marble, which also complements many of our wood colors. Furthermore, we will most likely add new colors in the near future.
